[Histological and immunohistochemical study of nasal cavity endodermis in health and disease]. In order to find out the characteristics of endodermis of nasal cavity in health and disease, the authors studied 3129 nasal endodermis in biopsy specimens of 26 healthy people and 179 patients with nasal chronic disease by the immunohistochemical methods. The results showed that the method of rapid-frozen section was simple, exact and convenient, and the original staining could be completed at the same time. This method also took no more than 5 min per one-section, and the staining could be finished in about 10 min. When the distribution of epithelial cells in nasal cavity epithelium was gradually decreased, and the distribution of basal cells was gradually decreased, and with that the lining layer was thinner. The difference of chemical substance may be the reason. In nasal cavity chronic granulation, the number of mast cell decreased and the connections among cells were irregular. The number of goblet cell increased, their morphology was diversified. There were reduced numbers of mucous glands, and the mucous cells were in normal structure. In nasal cavity hyperplasia, the number of mast cell increased, and the distribution of mucous cells was abnormal, and there were reduced numbers of mucous cells. The amount of basement membrane was increased, and the distribution of connective tissue fibers was altered. The above changes were more obvious in mast cell-rich hyperplastic region. The result of enzyme histochemistry was the same. The number of goblet cell decreased, their morphology was diversified, and the distribution of goblet cells was irregular. The quantity of mast cells decreased, with that the integrity of connective tissue decreased, and the connectivity among cells also decreased. In nasal cavity leukoplakia, the quantity of mast cell decreased, their morphology was diversified, and the number of goblet cell increased. The quantity of connective tissue fibers increased. In nasal cavity squamous cell carcinoma, the quantity of mast cell increased, their morphology was diversified, and the number of goblet cell decreased. The quantity of connective tissue fibers increased, and the connectivity among cells was sometimes weakened. The above results suggested that the nasal mucosa damage induced by chronic diseases might be related to the reduction of chemical substance, the decrease of its function and the formation of tight junctions between the epithelial cells.Q: How do I compare an object and a string using
