RADLINR: QUARANTINE is a fast-paced and addictive horde shooter that features a highly original world with dynamic living and decaying environments that react to the actions and reactions of the players, enemies, traps and drones! The players will take on the role of CO-OP characters, build a barricade or a sentry turret, test their weapons, employ traps, drones and sendry turrets. Each weapon, ability or trap will provide a different gameplay experience - an ability to quickly dash, quickly shoot, dash shoot, or throw items. Fight to survive among the undead and other inhabitants of the Old West in this frantic co-op sandbox horde shooter! Features: There are 4 types of variants. Each of them has a specialization. There are 16 unique abilities! Each has its own use: dash, dash shoot, dash dash shot, dash dash dash shoot Collect unique items and sell them to gain credits. Build and use your barricade to keep enemies out of your zombie corner Collect sentry turrets and use them to defend yourself against endless wave of enemies Defend your barricades with drones, traps and other objects Well we finally have the completed release version now guys, This game is pretty much done. Right now what is in the game is about 6-7 maps and about 4 bosses. Expect more maps and bosses in the next update. Well I am really excited to present to you guys the first update to RADLINR: QUARANTINE since I made this game, and it is the biggest update I have ever made to any game. This update is called " The Vault" and the idea behind it is to really get into the details of what makes this game tick. Every time you play, check out the displays of information, and the setting for the game. The ideas and reasons why I have gone with this are listed below. The Vault Backstory The game was announced to the world on April 16th, 2016, and after the E3 (Electronic Entertainment Expo) closed, I knew that I would be working full time on this game. After the fact that this game is finally released, I finally have time to start working on The Vault. Every time you play the game, in the pause menu, you can check out the display of the game at that current time. It shows the most important things that are going on in the game, like secrets, characters, objects and a little bit about

Features Key:

- CONTROLS: Most MEDIUM TO HARD. Natural forest trees can be simply and naturally jumped over like any other obstacle. The different tree biomes give a lot of different approach and different behavior.

- BOSSES: Different bosses stand in your way, to make your life more complicated and harder.
- OUTPUT: It is possible to make an extensive zone description with a lot of different detail information about the state of the zone and its contents.
- PLAYLIST: A self-build playlist system with over 50,00's different music tracks.
- GENERAL CLEANUP: a lot of different features to help you cleaning up the mess. You can for example delete your settlement zones, change the music mood, and so on.
- FONTS AND WEBPAGES: The whole game runs with YAML and DSS, so there are lots of different different fonts, sprite sheets, and so on.
- FULLY BASED ON: A heavy lift-able mudengine, that uses every detail as a model for creating its own game world.
- Cross-Platform: on Linux, Mac OS X, Android, and iOS.
- Previous game: Radline
- Licensing: Freely distributed under the same terms as the original game, available under no constraints.

Radline is a fast-paced, co-operative game that's set in a quarantine area infected by a strange unknown virus. With no vaccine and limited supplies, it's up to you and your friends to survive. As you take down the various enemies and traps that stand in your way, you'll collect various items that will allow you to customize your character. Choose from one of the available classes: Lumberjack, Explorer, Medic and Warrior. New Features: - Team up with your friends and survive together! Send in more than 5 players and they can work together to defeat the horde. - 20 hours of gameplay and many more hours of replayability - Customize your characters with new costumes and skills - More to unlock as you play, such as extra upgrades, characters, items and more - Easy to learn, challenging to master * Note: We release new content like new characters and classes every week. We are currently developing a lot of new content and this list is to inform you about what you can expect in the future. - Expected release date: early Q2 2015. Please follow us at We are back with another session of the dungeoncrafter classic! This time around the heroes are battling it out for a nice farm. Watch the last few minutes of this vid for a show! ►If you like this vid please consider clapping as this helps us a lot in getting more visibility. ►Check out our channel for more great videos!: ► Follow us on twitch!: ► Follow us on twitter!: ► Like us on facebook!: The attraction looks really interesting, and the zombie theme is pretty unique so maybe this is something that should be released sooner than later. There's also a rather awesome looking joint called The Huntress that should be releasing towards the end of this year, which could fit in nicely with the Hunter: The Reckoning style action-RPG. So I created a free Vietnam server, if anyone wants to give this game a go. I'm not going to work on this any more as it' d41b202975

What's new in Radline: Quarantine:

| Morning Report: Lottery | House Vote: Kavanaugh Part 1 of a multi-part series on the legal analysis, implications, and future of the Supreme Court nomination of Brett Kavanaugh. (CNN)- As Brett Kavanaugh faces what could be a difficult Supreme Court confirmation process, history suggests he's got a lot of defenders who want to create a following for themselves with the briefest possible tenure — even if it means being branded with a “partisan hack” during it. What explains the Kavanaugh mantra of “I’m sorry, I didn’t mean it” and “I have no idea, I don’t recall” as he tries to defend himself? And how should his actions be understood, considering the decisions he might make and the people he might succeed as judges over the decades if he is confirmed? In hearings, he has been charged by Democrats of essentially being a lawless judge who will do the bidding of “fascists” or “bigots” if he were confirmed, but haven’t received much in return, at least so far. And despite his assertions that he’s not objective and would readily apply the law to strong-arm a gay person, pretty much any analysis of his record and past statements shows he’s been something of a “law and order” judge in both criminal and civil cases. He has affirmed government power and a police state, not under the radar but in broad daylight where potential victims can see. How he could change The president won’t be able to put Kavanaugh on the court, but as a senator he wields considerable control over appointments and nominees. And while a lot will depend on whom Kavanaugh endorses for Supreme Court justices, which he did this week, it’s not clear he has a solid record or relationships in Washington he can tap that will change him in a major way — certainly not if he is confirmed. As far as changing his mind about gay rights, Chief Justice John Roberts reminded Senator Dianne Feinstein during the meeting in which she asked if he could rule to invalidate federal law against gay marriage if it weren’t challenged. He said his views hadn’t changed, but that he didn’t want to get flustered when issues come before him like the guidance on transgender bathrooms. “Congress made a constitutional judgment on a matter that is not the
