Click to the Beechwood - A Foodie's Day Out Although we went to the Grand View Lodge last year, I was so excited to go back and just soak up the beauty and architecture in all its splendor. Once again, I walked into the Lodge at the edge of the national forest and was awestruck. Unbeknownst to me, it is a once in a lifetime experience to be able to see the geography of the Blue Ridge Mountains up close. Aside from the vast forest below, you are able to view the magnificent gardens, vast lawns and a waterfall. Let me say it again...WOW! The grounds are where the old beechwood tree is located and we were to be given a taste of what goes into it. The grounds were breathtaking but the day started off with a bang as Mandy and I met our guide, Mike. Mike, I can say even though I know all the trees from the WWV postcards, I was amazed at his knowledge of the beechwood. We didn't have to ask a single question, I was there to learn about the trees and Mike was going over the story of the trees and how they have changed since the arrival of the first European settlers. Mike was extremely knowledgeable and was able
